

Canadian Army Team Probes Japanese Crimes in Far East

OTTAWA.—The wheels of justice are turning in the Far East to avenge Japanese atrocities against Canadian prisoners of war.

A Canadian army team, the Canadian war crimes liaison detachment, has been engaged for months tracing down information on atrocities committed in Japanese prisoner-of-war camps and affidavits and compared with findings of British and the United States with whom liaison is maintained and will wind up in war crimes courts at strategic points in the Pacific.

The Canadian unit is under the command of Lieut. Col. Oscar Orr of Vancouver and his investigating team includes three other officers and four warrant officers.

As Canada now has no armed force in the Far East it was necessary to try Japanese accused of crimes against Canadians in either British or U.S. courts. The governments have informed Canada that they are willing to try Japanese prisoners of war. Canadian services and have invited members of the liaison detachment to assist in the prosecution.

In Ottawa, the Canadian war crimes investigation section at the national defence headquarters under Lieut. Col. M. J. Griffin, Ottawa, sent a team of officers and under the written testimony of former prisoners of war. There were few R.C.A.P. prisoners as compared with the soldiers taken at Hong Kong, Bataan and other places. The Canadian army officers have been placed in charge of the inquiry. Liaison with the R.C.A.P. personnel receive appropriate attention.

One of the units most important in the evidence is the camp kept by Wing Cmdr. Leonard J. Birchall, O.B.E., D.F.C., the "Saviour of Ceylon," a native of Ontario, who was pilot of an R.C.A.P. flying boat, Birchall, was captured in the Indian Ocean and taken to the island of Ceylon in time to repulse the attack of the Japanese. He kept the Indian Ocean and taken to the island of Ceylon in time to repulse the attack of the Japanese.

Contains History The diary contains a history of every prisoner he met and his testimony is valued by each country's national war crimes prisoners in Japan.

Several flimsy papered books, one half of which was able to get out of Japan, make up Birchall's diary. During the war, he kept the diary hidden in a false-backed book and smuggled part of it from place to place. He hid the diary in a place where it was lost in a bombardment by the Japanese.

After the war, he suffered all the usual hardships including sentence to a "discipline" camp where he was punished. He was made to stand in the rain for hours in an effort to punish the spirits of officers who had been killed. He was made to stand in the rain for hours in an effort to punish the spirits of officers who had been killed.

One of his captives was first brought to him by the Japanese. He was tortured and heard of the deaths of others. He was camped outside Tokyo during the burning and bombing of that city, so near that he could hear the danger of being hit by Allied bombs.

A well-organized "underground" system is described by Birchall, who also kept records of the movements of prisoners, especially those who were given "underground" papers and published and circulated.

Investigation is made doubly hard by the distance separating the unit in the Pacific and headquarters at Ottawa. Often it is necessary to obtain affidavits from England, Australia, and even India, adding delay of months before Japanese criminals can be brought to trial.

A certain island used as a prisoner-of-war camp was such a "hell-hole" that even Japanese guards attempted to escape from it, according to a deposition by P.O. W. H. Monnell of St. Lambert, Que. When Monnell was moved from that island he and others were crowded into the hold of a coaling ship on the floor of which was two feet of coal dust and water. They were kept in it for days.

Lieut. William Lockwood of Renfrew, Ont., met Clarence H. Hanks of Montreal and P.O. W. Lawrence Monnery of Lachine, Que., described intolerable living conditions with food of such quality and meagre rations that to keep alive was a real achievement.

Prisoners were forced to work while they were so weak they could hardly stand. Beatings were administered for falling in the road or pausing to get a better hold on a shovel or pick.

Col. Orr and his colleagues, with instructions to cover all cases in which Canadian service personnel or civilians suffered death or permanent disability or offence, are determined to carry out their obligations to the fullest.

Fatal Crash Halts Debate On Traffic

LONDON, (CP)—An automobile being pursued by a police car at 70 miles an hour through London's streets crashed through the railings outside the house of parliament, killing a woman and interrupting a long commons debate on the traffic code.

Science Gets Atom Material As First to Aid Mankind

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Atomic energy materials to serve man have begun to move from the laboratory to the field.

Within a few days of the anniversary of the discovery of the atom, the United States has delivered to science—for new uses of cancer, diabetes and other ailments of radio-active carbon.

Spurred in the same chain-reacting uranium ore at Oak Ridge, the United States has delivered to science—for new uses of cancer, diabetes and other ailments of radio-active carbon.

The army's Manhattan Engineer project said the materials are slated to serve humanity in two important ways:

1. As "tracers," or atomic signal-givers, for following the course of non-radiant atoms in many processes which offer riddles to medicine, industry, agriculture, metallurgy and other branches of science. A major use will be investigating the causes of disease.

2. As possible therapeutic agents for the treatment of certain malignant diseases such as leukemia and thyroid disease.

Russians May Overlay Hand; Evidence of Reaction Seen

VIENNA, (CND)—The Russians may be overlaying their hand in central Europe. All along the Iron Curtain, where people see its effects firsthand, you find evidence of reaction against Communism.

The closer you get the heavier the evidence. In Austria, the Communist party wherever there are free elections, in Austria, the Communist party wherever there are free elections, in Austria, the Communist party wherever there are free elections.

American correspondents coming out of the Balkans say there is a marked change since a year ago. When the Russians came in, some of those small countries welcomed liberation from the Nazis. After a year of Russian domination, in which their nations have been turned into virtual Soviet republics, the Communists are increasingly unpopular.

The cure for Communism is Communism, said an American observer of 10 years' experience in central Europe. But it's too late for most of those people now. The Soviets dominate them far more completely than even Hitler did. The people have no voice. They can't vote for something else in free elections.

There are reports of increasing desertions. There also seems to be a fairly heavy turnover of Red troops, sent back after short periods in occupied zones. There is no doubt that the ruthless tactics, and in many cases barbarous treatment of people, practised by Russian troops caused no resentment.

Yet, so far, the Russians have won most trials in this new game of power politics for control of central Europe.

They are playing for two big stakes, either to dominate the states economically and politically, or to so weaken them that there can be no effective force on the continent except Russia. They are making headway on both points.

Doubletalk Continues

The doubletalk out of Moscow against "democracy" has been carried far away. But not those close up. They see the grim dictatorship of Russia, the perfect control of the people, the concentration camps, controlled press, the liquidation of opposition, the pseudo-elections.

They see and fear the ruthless Communist grip on Germany and Austria and its infiltration to the west.

With a party of American editors, I saw some examples here of what one high American official called "human and barbarous" treatment of minorities. Overnight 34,000 former Germans were ordered thrown out of their homes. Many had lived here for years and had become Austrian citizens. They were herded into barred-wire enclosures and sent off to former slave labor camps at Alesk, some to starve there indefinitely.

This camp, empty for months and already completely lousy by the Russians, has no windows in the buildings, no fuel and no stove, no water or sewage system. The Americans are taking in large numbers of them. The Russian action directly violates their agreement for orderly and humane expulsion of minorities.

Not First Time

It was not the first violent move of this kind. George Mathews, chief of the Quaker (American Friends Service) mission here, said that thousands had been housed out of their homes in Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania on two hours' notice.

These people are put into barracks, sometimes 40 persons living in one room, and eating bowl of soup and a piece of bread a day, he said. Like many others, they would be killed if they didn't starve.

There is a growing feeling that if the western Allies will stand up to Russia, insist on fair peace treaties and the basic rights of men, there will be more hope of lasting peace and a check on the new march of totalitarianism.

South Side Garden Wins Top Honors In Annual City Competition

Years of hard work and careful attention have earned the reward Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Harsant have been aiming at for some time, to be winner of the Edmonton Horticultural society home garden contest. This year, when judges W. G. Shumbe and E. G. Stier, made their decision, they gave the nod to the colorful and beautiful garden at the Harsant home.

A partial view of the well-planned garden and lawn is shown here, with Mrs. Harsant sitting by the fish pond. The garden contains flowers of all varieties, laid out in careful color combinations, trees and shrubbery, and a green carpet of lawn, with the pond setting off the entire landscape.

Born in Sussex, England, Mr. Brown came to Alberta in 1905. He served over 27 years in the First Great War and upon his return to Edmonton in 1918 he secured an appointment with the council of the municipal district of Strathcona. He served as assistant to the late John Sanford who retired in 1932, and a year after appointment in an acting capacity was named secretary treasurer.

Active in Bonnie Doon Baptist circles during the past 27 years, Mr. Brown was a former teacher at the Bonnie Doon Baptist school and served as superintendent of the Alhambra Sunday school up to the time of his retirement.

He has also been active in musical circles and was a member of the Strathcona Choral society. He took charge of the Strathcona Baptist church choir for seven years and was tenor soloist in various Cantatas.

Reprimand Is Seen Result of Remarks

LONDON, (CPI)—A Whitehall source Monday said Lt.-Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander-in-chief of the British Commonwealth, had been reprimanded by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery for remarks made in a letter accompanying a furloughing party among British military personnel and Jews.

British last week dissociated the government from the observations in Gen. Barker's letter.

Gen. Barker spoke of "contempt" and "loathing" against the Jewish people, and said the Jewish troops had come to feel toward Jews.

Big Four Unable to Agree On Internationalizing Trieste

PARIS, (AP)—Four groups of experts seeking to draw up a statute for the internationalization of Trieste were far from agreement Monday, and were expected to submit four different reports to the peace conference.

These reports will represent the divergent views of Great Britain, United States, Russia, and France, whose foreign ministers agreed to turn the Adriatic port into an international zone and set up the experts' committee to settle the details.

Russian members of the committee, reliable informants said, were supporting Yugoslav demands for administration of the zone. French, British and American members of the committee will differ on details, agree the Trieste international government should be headed by a nationalities council.

Yugoslav sources said they are convinced they will win peace-conference support for their administrative demands. The conference is expected to get the issue shortly in the form of the divergent reports of the experts.

In Trieste there is widespread speculation whether internationalization would turn the city into a veritable shoo-in. Most of the Allied military government officials, politicians and plain citizens think it will be one extreme or the other.

In the past Trieste has run up and down the scale of commercial importance.

Not Certain Peace Treaties Will Stop Nations Rearing

PARIS, (NANA)—Nothing in the draft peace treaty being considered by the 21-nation peace conference promises that the former enemy powers, excluding Germany, will be demilitarized.

If the Germans after the First Great War in circumventing the restrictive provisions of the Versailles treaty offers any example, and if there is a will to do so, the former enemy nations are likely to come up in any future conflict with powerful armaments.

Possibly in this atomic age, with the United Nations at least theoretically able to put overwhelming forces into the field, national armaments may not count for anything more, but it would be folly to assume that this peace conference, in the basis of present information, will permanently pull the teeth of the late enemy powers.

If world peace is enforced, it will have to be by the security council of the U.N. acting through its military staff committee.

The problem of German military armaments, of course, is being considered at Paris because it is in the hands of the council of foreign ministers and occupation authorities, and the Germans are forbidden to have any military forces.

While the armies, navies and air forces permitted under the draft peace treaties represent enormous reductions from the forces of the former enemy powers had in operation during the Second Great War, the reductions are not necessarily of much practical importance.

The Versailles Treaty allowed Germany an army of only 100,000 men, including officers; navy, 15,000 more; and 10,000 aircraft. Germany had to enlist for 12 years, and officers for 25 consecutive years. Navy enlistments were similarly long-term. The army was permitted no tanks and no aircraft.

Yet through the expansion of police, creation of various types of private military organizations, operation of commercial aviation and armament experimentation abroad, the Germans were able to maintain and expand skeleton forces which within 20 years constituted the world's strongest single military force.

By 1919, for example, when Allied authorities attempted unsuccessfully to remove the treaty, Germany boasted, in addition to her regular army of 100,000, an unofficial army of 1,000,000, a volunteer police corps, 350,000 emergency volunteer civic guards, and 150,000 regular police.

She also had laid the groundwork

Say Hitler's Yacht Bought by Briton

LONDON, (AP)—The London Daily Mail said Monday that Hitler's luxury yacht, the Grille, has been bought from the British government by Henry Buxton, enterprising publisher, and may become a pleasure ship for holidaying Britons. The newspaper said the purchase price was $500,000.

In her commercial aviation for the future world lifeline. The Germans demonstrated the comparative ease with which it is possible to construct powerful fighting forces outside treaty restrictions, given the will, and the resources of industry and research staffs.

The former enemy states could do the same thing under peace treaties that will be written here at Paris, if they are so minded.

It is true that with the exception of Italy, none of the powers concerned possess strong industrial and scientific organizations, but that is of minor practical importance.

In the past, eastern and southern European nations always have depended on foreign armament manufacturers.

In the event of future war, the little power, according to how they turned up, would be disposed to try to circumvent the military clauses of the peace treaties that will be drawn at Paris. But it would be unrealistic to assume that if they wanted to they couldn't recover at least a large part of their former military strength.

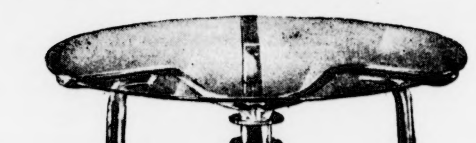

Chances for world peace do not lie in treaties but in world organization through which the U.N. to make aggression both unnecessary and excessively hazardous.

Henry Martell Plays Inspired Golf To Take Canadian Title

Scores an 'Ace' and 7-Under-Par Figures To Beat Vancouver's Kenny Black 6 and 5

Champion and Ball He Sank for an Ace in Final

It is—so they say—a long road that has no turning. Kenny Black, great stickman from the Canadian Club, knows all about this after what happened to him at Mayfair Golf and Country club Saturday.

Black laid his rating as Canada's No. 1 amateur golfer on the line against Henry Martell in the finals of the Canadian Amateur Golf tournament. The latter was billed as a 36-hole test. It was over at the 31st, with Edmonton's superb fairway craftsman a 6 and 5 winner.

Canada had a new amateur golf champion.

In the process of sealing the heights Martell saved his Sunday punch for the 25th hole (sixth) in the afternoon. At this point the new titlist scored a six from 150 yards, a caddy, 16-year-old Doug Campbell, and lofted a high shot to the flag, 160 yards distant.

The ball dug into the carpet six feet from the cup, honed once, then rolled down the stick for the hole. The Canadian Amateur Golf first hole-in-one in the history of the game.

Close to 2,000 fans, also one of the largest galleries in the history of the 51-year-old event, set up such a cheering and hollering as you never heard the equal of hereabouts on a golf course. From that point on Martell's efforts were watched with an attitude of "We're not everything but we're here."

In all but chasing the Vancouver star from the course, Martell more than just took charge of the crown Black had worn since 1939. He likewise averaged the hole-in-one, lacking Black three ways in the 20th, 21st and 22nd holes. Even since that day, when Black, who had hoped of bringing the dominion's highest amateur honors to Edmonton, Martell has thrived as another hell at old Davey Black's bay.

An Artistic Job

Saturday and Sunday came his way to start. And what a job he made of getting even. Before they shook hands at the 31st hole, the Alberta open-amateur champion had scored the most brilliant of all. What had been a bitter, never-ending struggle through a morning of brilliant golf on the part of a pair of tournament hardened iron swingers was turned into a one-man show.

From the time the ball went around the turn in the after-noon part of the affair, Martell was up. Black might just as well have gone fishing in the nearby Saskatchewan for all the hope he had of stemming the Martell tide of holes.

Black made it easy for Martell to take a four-hole edge at the 28th, (sixth) when he hooked his tee shot into the woods that skirt the outside of the fairway. He wasted a stroke getting out, caught a bank-drawn ball, and the match terminated three holes later Martell took on all the aspects of an O'Connell Crossover.

Turning On The Heat

At the 32nd and 29th his drive carried slightly off line down the right side. He now was home to the green with a solid shot, but still sitting 70 yds from the cup. Black meanwhile, inside Martell's second hole-in-one, was not hot-shot to lay his first putt in as cold as he could.

Martell must have been in a hurry to get things over. He lured up the putt, easily rolled it into the hole. Just as he was about to take the bottom of the cup, thoroughly shaken, he moved his feet and the ball rolled into the hole. He was not hot-shot to lay his first putt in as cold as he could.

Then they walked back to the clubhouse. Martell's head was high. He had won the Canadian amateur golf title and thoughts of Montreal's M. J. Hogan and other greats of the past were not far from his mind.

Black came along side the man who had just won the title. He was not hot-shot to lay his first putt in as cold as he could.

Crushies Conquer Fastball Welders

A seven-run eighth inning Sunday carried Orange Crush Crushers to a 10-7 fastball win over the Welders at Kingsway park. First of a best-of-three junior men's semi-finals series, it was the first afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Winner played South Side.

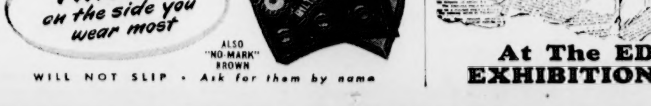

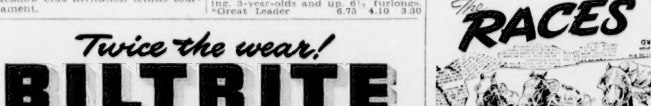

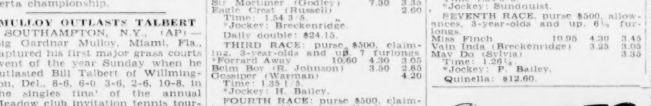

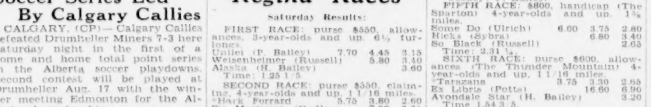

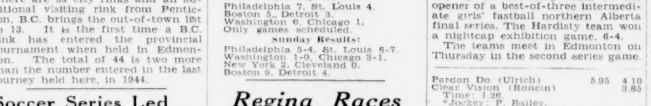

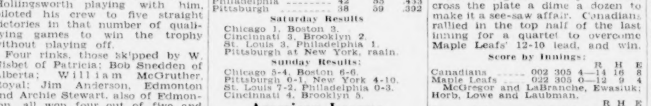

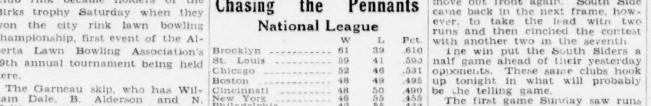

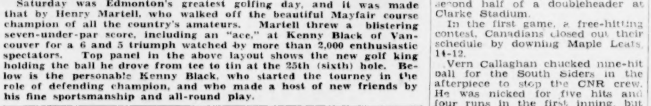

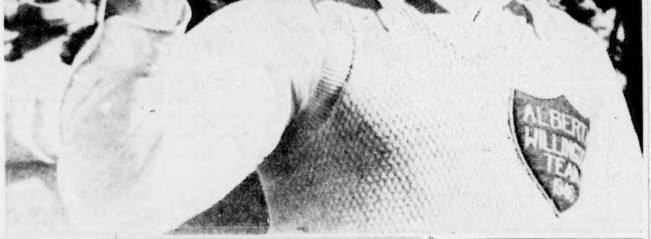

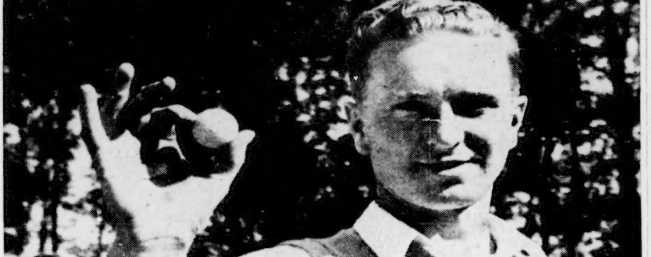

Medals started the scoring with four in the fourth, added singles in the fifth and seventh frames to set the eighth. The Crushers were really sparked by Johnny Clark's triple and two aboard.

Legionnaires and RCAF Aces clash at Kingsway tonight at 6:45 o'clock. The Crushers are the defending champions of the northern Alberta senior men's series.

Martell's Triumph Pleases His Chief

While all Edmonton acclaimed the great triumph of Henry Martell in the final of the Dominion amateur golfing championship Saturday there was none happier than Henry's "boss," Chief Constable Reginald Jennings, of the Edmonton city police department.

OFFICIAL AUSTERITY was dumped overboard as Chief Jennings, himself a golfer of considerable skill and a fellow member of the Highlands Golf Club, with Martell, praised without stint the triumph of Const. Henry Martell.

"I'm sure plenty proud of Henry. We all are over here at the police department!" exclaimed Chief Jennings.

"He shot the best golf I ever saw played to win this final Saturday from Black," added the chief in further tribute to his golfer police subordinate.

CONST. HENRY Martell never asks any favors on the golf course. At present he is on annual vacation and is making it a real golfing holiday.

The first week of his holidays was spent participating in the provincial tournament, last week it was the Canadian amateur and next week he will be competing in the professional golf meet at Winnipeg.

HENRY IS A "GOOD, steady" type of police officer.

Chief Jennings has himself been a golf enthusiast for many years and is an active member of the Highland Golf Club, where Champion Martell is also a member.

The two have clashed many times in friendly matches. "But he's too good for me," declared the chief constable.

Big Clearing Project Is Mooted for North

A vast land clearing and breaking scheme involving 25,000 acres on the Blueberry plateau, west of Spirit River, and 100,000 acres in the Tangent sector in the Peace River district will be undertaken immediately, subject to the approval of the provincial government at the next sitting of the executive council, it was stated Monday by Julian H. Bair, representative of Hartman Bros., of Seattle, whose contract with the government for the Tangent project has been taken over by a group of contractors from Chicago and Texas.

MR. BAIR, who has been asked to remain with the new contractors in an administrative capacity, said that the new contracting organization had from 35 to 50 caterpillar tractors and other equipment ready to ship into the field, pending acceptance of the request to break and ready for seeding the additional 25,000 acres.

The first week of preparing the 35,000-acre, was placed at $3,000, which would be underwritten by the contractors, Mr. Bair said.

ACCEPTANCE of the composite contract and work on the land began immediately it was estimated by Mr. Bair that 6,000 acres would be prepared by this fall and ready for spring seeding.

The plan, which had been under negotiation with Hartman Bros., since the early part of 1945, was to settle war veterans on the land with a view to advancing by many years agricultural development which would be retarded and haphazard through leaving the groundwork to individual farm operators.

THERE IS NO SHORTAGE of applicants for land to be prepared under the scheme, Mr. Bair reported. He said that the officials of the department of veterans' affairs stated that at the beginning of 1946 applicants in Alberta totaled 1,300 and that there were 18,000 throughout the Dominion awaiting opportunities to take up suitable farm sites.

Part of the original contract provides that if any portion of the land area prepared by the contractor will take over the seedling and cropping of that area.

SPEAKING OF the productive quality of the land in the Blueberry range, Mr. Bair said, it was first conceived and taken up with the provincial government.

I visited this area and saw 1,300 acres of land which would yield 50 bushels to the acre and better in that district.

He said the Hartman contractors, then prepared to bring their machinery into Canada to start work on the Tangent project, were stopped by an order by the United States government which froze land clearing equipment.

THE BLUEBERRY plateau range where the additional 25,000-acre development contract is sought from the provincial government, lies south of Peace River between Duvegan and the British Columbia boundary and is served with its nearest terminus of the Northern Alberta Railway.

If negotiations with the government, which will probably come under consideration Tuesday, are not successful in consummating the extra 25,000 acres in addition to the 100,000 in the Tangent area, Mr. Bair said he will resign as an associate in the undertaking and return to the United States.

Veterans' payments are in the form of sharing proceeds of their crop yields, two thirds of which the veteran receives over a seven year period, with one tenth of the remaining third going to the government and the balance to the contractors, Mr. Bair said.

Edmonton Marks Annual Holiday

Favoured with warm weather and sunny skies, citizens of Edmonton today are enjoying a civic holiday. Many have taken advantage of the long week-end and are picking up sun tans at neighboring lakes, or finishing up odd jobs around the home and garden.

A VARIETY of sports events are highlighting the holiday for sports enthusiasts. Among those expected to draw large audiences are the annual Alberta lawn-bowling tournament which gets underway Monday afternoon and the Canadian Legion tourney which got underway on Sunday.

Other events lined up include baseball, football, tennis and junior baseball.

Two baseball games are on today's schedule. At 2:30 p.m. Delta players got underway with a game against the Edmonton Cubs. At 6:30, the visiting team will play the Cardinals.

SERVICE AT THE CITY'S main post office has been restricted to complete special delivery and dispatch of mail service. There is no letter carrier delivery. Wickets in the downtown post office were open from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Man in Hospital Suffering Scalds

Explosion of a can of milk caused Marino Mickeloff, 97 Stubbell block, to be taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital suffering from scalds shortly after 1 p.m. Monday. According to information Mickeloff, a baker who has been employed for many years by Johnson's cafe, put a can of milk on the stove and neglected to remove the lid. He later went to take the lid off after the milk had evidently started to boil and scalded the lid flew off with an explosion splashing the man. The latest report from hospital authorities is that he is resting well.

Why Grow Old?

Q. "I READ YOUR column every day and have been wanting to write to you for some time to ask you if there is anything that can be done for a disfigurement I have. When my baby was coming, ten years ago, I gained too much weight and since then my stomach has been just like a bag and my breasts hang. I am not a heavy girl, wearing size eleven dresses. My body is horrible looking while my arms and legs are still perfect. I would be willing to undergo any sort of operation."

A. "If you can give me any information about this I will be grateful. I am not rich but would be willing to go to any expense within reason. I am only 28 and feel that I should do something about this since it bothers me a great deal."

A. IT IS TOO BAD that women so often gain too much weight during pregnancy and therefore have unnecessary figure problems. You can improve the contour of your abdomen greatly, with no expense except your own personal effort and a little time. If your condition is really as extreme as it seems to you it may take quite awhile to see improvement. Take abdominal exercises regularly every day. The muscles are probably so weakened that you will have to begin with easy ones. I suggest this progression:

1. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend the knee close to your abdomen. Kick toward the ceiling and lower leg with a stiff knee.

2. Bend both knees close to the stomach. Straighten legs as you return them to the floor. Continue, alternating left and right.

3. After you have done these exercises about 20 or 30 times each day for two or three weeks, then do the following: When you do exercise number one bend both knees up to the stomach at the same time, stretch both legs toward the ceiling and lower toward floor. When you do exercise number two try to bring the heels close to the floor without touching the floor. When you do number three raise both legs and arms at the same time and then return them to floor. If the condition of the bust is extreme, plastic surgery is the only answer I know.

Q. "Will curlers break the ends of my hair?"

A. No. "Please tell me what is wrong with my measurements. Bust 35—waist 28—hips 35—weight 125. Age 15."

A. Bust and hips are perfect and you will probably slim down a little in the waist as you grow older.

Q. "WHAT WILL TAKE freckles off my face?"

A. Shade your face when in the sun, use sun-lotion when outdoors—use one of the bleaches of a reputable cosmetic house—or lemon juice. This will not entirely banish the freckles but it will diminish them.

Be Humble in Hollywood, Broadway Actors Advised

BY HOWARD C. HEYN
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3 (AP)—Louis Calhern, now visiting here, sends this advice back to the Broadway actors who look to the Hollywood with a raised eyebrow: "When you come out her you'd better be more humble."

CALHERN IS NO newcomer to these parts. He started his east-west commuting in 1920. In spite of the fact that his screen roles seem insignificant compared with his legitimate stage work, he keeps coming back for more. He is now holding down the role of Morosow in "Arch of Triumph."

After watching the film industry grow for 25 years, Calhern said he was definitely impressed with its progress. "Those who use the term 'matured' are certainly using the wrong word," he said. "An industry that has made as much money as the motion picture business is certainly more than 'matured'."

CALHERN WAS ALSO happy to see that leading men are getting better breaks. "They are no longer afraid of losing the sympathy of the audience," he said.

Warner's new Swedish star, Vivian Lindfors, is driving around town in a shiny '46 car. Her lawyer-husband represents a large American auto firm in Sweden. . . . Jean Pierre Aumont and his wife, Maria Montez, leave Sept. 3 on the Queen Mary for England and France.

Hollywood turned out en masse last night to congratulate Warner Brothers on the 20th anniversary of talking pictures. The throngs gathered early in the day in front of the Warner's theatre to catch a glimpse of stars who attended the premier of "Night and Day."

The film is worthy of the anniversary and should help make 1946 one of the brothers' most profitable years. Cole Porter's music is beautifully presented in the lavish technicolor production. Acting honours go to Cary Grant and Jane Wyman.

Lt-Col. BRUCE MACDONALD

Says SS General Given Fair Trial

"While I do not agree with the commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment from death for Maj. Gen. Kurt Meyer, former commander of the 12th SS Hitler Youth Division, I am not disposed to criticize the judgment of Maj. Gen. Chris Volke," said Lt-Col. Bruce Macdonald, who headed the war crimes section of Canadian Military Headquarters, which prosecuted Meyer.

The original plan at the outset of the war crimes trial was that those sentenced would serve terms of imprisonment in Canada. Other criminals, however, would serve 15 years imprisonment, which would take them to Canada also, he said.

Lt-Col. Macdonald, with his wife, is in the city holding a visiting Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Macdonald at 10222 122 street, they will be in the city for a few days before returning to Windsor, Ont., where the former will resume his job practice.

Seek to Avert Strike of Packers

Position of Alberta livestock producers, in the event of a strike on the part of packing house workers, was outlined in a telegram sent to Mr. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labour, following a board meeting of the Alberta Livestock Cooperative held over the week end.

The telegram pointed out that if a strike should take place, the cost to producers would be extremely heavy, and the packers that the government do all in its power to avert such a strike.

The telegram referred to the pending strike of United Packing House Workers employed in Swift Canadian Company plants.

In the Edmonton branch of the plant, a strike vote has already been taken showing voting of 511 in favor of the strike action. The workers are threatening to strike on the issue that negotiations between employees and the company be conducted on a national basis.

The company wants to negotiate with each branch separately.

Preliminary negotiations are being carried out at Toronto and Calgary on a national basis with Burns and Canada Packers.

CONFERENCE DISCUSS PLAGUES: In the picturesque background of a Waterton lakes schoolhouse constructed of rocks 12 medical and scientific men from Alberta, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and the United States met for three days to consider ways and means of meeting cyclical outbreaks of rodent and insect-carried diseases transmissible to humans. Left to right they are: Dr. J.S. Cull, Victoria, B.C., provincial health officer for British Columbia; Dr. H.S. Doyle, Regina, provincial director of communicable diseases; Dr. R.J. Gibbons, Ottawa, chief of the Dominion laboratory of hygiene; Dr. F.A. Humphreys, Kamloops, bacteriologist, Dominion laboratory of hygiene; A.W. Klotz, director of laboratories, Boise, Idaho; Lt.-Col. C.B. Philip, United States public health services, Washington; Dr. J.G. Rempel, professor of entomology, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon; F.M. Prince, of the United States public health services plague station at San Francisco; J.H. Brown, Edmonton, entomologist, provincial department of health; Dr. M.R. Bow, deputy minister of health and chair man of the conference, and Dr. R.M. Shaw, provincial bacteriologist, who is not included in the photograph.

The president of the company, J.F. McMillan, 9828 107 street, stated that the building is 90 per cent covered by insurance and that the buildings are valued at $200,000. Only one piece of machinery was in the building which was damaged, that being a machine for bailing the shavings.

FIREMEN HAD to cut holes through the roof in order to pour water down on top of the shavings and to extinguish the fire.

The alarm was sounded by the alarm bell in the building, which was installed in the building. Fire halls one, two and five responded at the number eight hall was called out.

A week's supply of nails stored in a small building, which was on fire was untouched. Other losses include building paper and lumber. There may possibly be water damage of the box making machinery.

ONLY A SMALL CROWD gathered around, being drawn by the huge billows of black smoke. Six lines of hose were used and by 7:35 p.m. the all out was given.

RECENTLY THE committee, through its chairman E.T. Love, presented a brief to the city council seeking adoption of a $50,000 road and clean-up program, and it was urged at that time that the council endorse the spending of $50,000 on roads during the next five years.

The $50,000 was to be allocated on the basis of $3,000,000 for arterial and semi-arterial roads, and $2,000,000 for local improvements. Expenditure on roads would be $400,000 on local improvements depends on petitions received from property owners for street improvements, the circular points out.

It is also pointed out that Edmonton has a long record of petitioning for local improvements, and if property owners wish to see improvements in their area, they must petition as early as possible, as the schedules for 1947 are being drawn up for that year.

IF THE PETITIONS are not forwarded the funds available for local improvements will undoubtedly be used for other purposes, and Edmonton will fall further behind other progressive cities in road development, it was emphasized.

One Man Injured In Auto Crash
One man was injured and another arrested on a charge of dangerous driving as the result of an accident which occurred about 2:30 p.m. Sunday on 97 street between 118 and 119 avenues. The injured man is Melvin Anderson, 10841 97 street, who suffered a broken arm as a result of flying glass from a broken windshield. He was taken to the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

ANDERSON was a passenger in the car driven by Edward David Elden, 11744 120 street. The arrested man, who was into the rear of a parked car at 11842 97 street, Elden stated that he was driving south on 97 street when he struck a car in the middle of the street with no lights on.

Arthur Uppridge, 11918 83 street, the owner of the parked car, told police that his car was parked on the side of the road close to a ditch. He heard a crash and saw the car of the house and found his car about 30 feet farther south, and the other car about 100 feet north of the sidewalk.

BOTH CARS were badly damaged. Anderson was the only one injured. Two witnesses told police that he proceeded down 96 street at a fast rate of speed, swerved to pass a truck and struck Morrison as he was crossing the street on the cross walk.

A narrow escape from possible death was experienced by a 230 p.m. Sunday by Roy Stowe, 11220 96 street, who was struck from behind with a bullet in the neck and necked the right jawbone, as he was walking west toward Swift Canadian Company. He was given first aid at the plant and then was taken to hospital for further treatment.

Extension of facilities for preventing and combating cancer were announced Monday by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health. Alberta took a lead several years ago in providing aid in the diagnosis and early treatment of the disease. New regulations are extending this service.

Their function "is to examine each patient and make a diagnosis or not, and to decide what form of treatment, if any, is to be as to whether the patient can be recommended in the best interest of the patient."

Only patients referred by their attending physicians having cancer may be admitted to the clinics and to be admitted one must be a resident of Alberta for 12 successive months of the previous year.

THE DEPARTMENT of health has announced that the cancer clinics will be extended to the following cities:

Big Spending Forces Britain

By Frank Swanson

LONDON—British high embankment spending spree has many ugly earmarks of the American war effort.

It has taken from them more than $400,000,000 in the last year, it is calculated by Americans, and it is estimated that during the forthcoming year dollar will be at least five times, making 2,000,000,000 of spending in the next 12 months for the year.

And above this is the announced plan for the national government to have cashed in five weeks at a rate of $100,000,000 a week.

FRANKFURT, April 26.—United States 3rd Army announced Thursday that Russian soldiers returned two American prisoners to their unit after they had been captured in the zone of the American-Russian zone border in Germany.
